With a population of 1,850 and no operating hotel, Harden presents a unique opportunity. Situated at the head of the main street, the Carrington Hotel, which had been the community's only pub for years, closed its bar in February 2025, leaving the town without a trading hotel.

The essentials are ready-just connect the kegs, stock the shelves, and start serving.

Set on a 1,164 sqm corner block with rear lane access, this spacious two-storey hotel features a bar, lounge, dining area, kitchen, lock-up shop, and 20 guest rooms, offering over 900 sqm of total floor space.

While some renovations are needed to bring the accommodation up to standard, the ample space downstairs is available for immediate business opportunities.

Accommodation demand is soaring throughout the Cootamundra Shire, with overflow reaching Young and Temora-so why not meet that need in Harden?
